21:12:45 MISC 1C59 Comment:RP is possibly mental. Began arguing this morning about opening an investment account at the bank. She did not want him to open this account. She stated he is selfish and does not agree. RP told her he is doing this for their future. They continued arguing outside. She stated "I could beat your ass to death". RP felt threatened at this time. You got into his car and began "using the internet to calm down is nerves". She then text him and told him to go get three baby gates to keep the dogs from going downstairs and peeing on the plywood. He went to the store and retrieved the gates. He arrived back home and the house was locked. He went to his inlaws down the street and hungout for an hour. He then came back to the house and saw his girlfriend in her car with their two children and cat. He went up to the car and got on his knees and begged her to let the cat out of the car. She began to drive away as he was still holding onto the car. Eventually he let go and she left. He believes she stole the cat and is taking it to the pound. He told me the cat is a family cat. Because of this I informed him this is a civil issue between them. He became very upset about this and demanded I stop her vehicle and take the cat from her. After being told I cant do that multiple times , he wanted me to wait at the residence for her to return. He wanted me to stand by while they argued about the cat and make sure he was safe during the arguement. I told him I am not doing that as well. After being told no multiple times, he then told me about the story of being threatened. Being threatened was not an issue he told me about until I told him I cannot get the cat back.

1C59 Comment:Selena verified it is a family cat which means she can take it and get rid of it. She stated the arguement about the investment account happened tonight while she was getting hamburgers at the store. She is due to give birth in threee weeks and doesn't think Jim should be getting money out of their chekcing account when they only have $300 at this point. She stated Jim has taken beer from her parents today and is drunk because of it. She said she never told him she would beat his ass. She only told him they can't be together anymore if he is going to be irresponsible with the money
